Hello!

This person (<https://twitter.com/cheapseatsecon>) quote tweeted one of our posts on Twitter, suggesting a drop box should be lit on fire: <https://twitter.com/cheapseatsecon/status/1322570839338946563>. They identify themselves in their Twitter bio as living in Kansas City, MO. A screenshot is also attached.

Per Washington state law, damaging a drop box would be a felony. This tweet has also been reported to the FBI.

My name is Kylee Zabel, and I'm the Communications Director for the Washington Office of the Secretary of State. I can be reached via this email or the two numbers listed in my signature block below. My cell phone is monitored after hours if I need to be reached urgently. I am also copying Washington State Elections Director Lori Augino, our Web and Social Media Coordinator Kiran Boyal, and our Executive Receptionist Nick Jacob.

Hello,

I wanted to flag two tweets with possible misinformation about the election here in Washington state.

The first tweet is using falsified/photoshopped poll numbers to boost a particular candidate's write-in campaign. We don't have any results as of yet; ballots are not tabulated until after 8 p.m. election night.
<https://twitter.com/Way2ManyElles/status/1321155452000890880>

The second tweet is misinformation because no ballots have been rejected yet. Only county canvassing boards can reject ballots, and no ballots have been forwarded to the boards at this time.

Subject: Election Misinformation - Facebook post

At the bottom of this email is a Facebook post provided to us by the Colorado Fusion Center. The statement in the post is false. A ballot would not be invalidated simply because something was written on it.

Our office did some research on the post and found the following:

1. This is all over Facebook. The original version of this appears to have originated in Myrtle Beach Florida circa 7 October and its now making its way across the internet over the last several days.
2. Several fact-checking websites have looked into this and found it to be false – further suggesting it has gained some traction on social media – but also that it is actively being countered.
  1. <https://leadstories.com/hoax-alert/2020/10/fact-check-poll-managers-in-myrtle-beach-have-no-reason-to-write-on-ballot-and-it-will-not-be-disqualified-if-a-poll-manager-writes-on-it.html> (Published 9 October 2020)
  2. <https://www.snopes.com/fact-check/poll-workers-ballots-invalidated/> (Published 13 October 2020)

There are some use cases in Colorado where a poll worker may need to mark ballots for proper processing, but it is rare. Therefore, we do not consider this a significant threat. We still wanted to make sure you were aware.

Facebook Post:

Can someone verify this?

from someone I know and trust.

advice for voting day...from a friend

Just finished Poll Manager training! I passed all the classes. I want you all to know something...if you are checking in at the polls and they happen to write anything on your ballot before they give it to you to put in the voting machine...a letter, a checkmark, a star, an R or a D any writing of any kind...please request a new ballot. Your ballot could be disqualified if it is written on. Please be on the lookout for this type of behavior.

Misinformation report: tweets alleging tabulation fraud in Delaware County, PA

Subject: Misinformation from Delaware County, PA

Good morning,

I think you guys are likely already aware of this, but there is misinformation spreading widely about the counting/tabulation process in Delaware County, PA. The county is a Hart customer, and they contacted us about this, so I am sharing it. I've already seen some posts containing the video removed by Twitter, so it appears that these posts are already being flagged.

A video is widely circulating of election workers in Delaware County duplicating ballots that could not be read by scanners. This is a routine election procedure. However, the video was doctored to cut out the observers who were present at the site. It artificially looks like the election worker is filling out blank ballots unsupervised. Most of the posts claim the workers are filling out blank ballots in an apparent attempt to "steal" the election.

1. From the London Daily News.
2. From Drudge Report-knockoff site called Populist Press.

This Tweet previously also shared the video, with the claim that the election was being “stolen,” but it has already been removed by Twitter.

Here are some other Tweets with the video that are still live:

1. Andrew Wilkow
2. Anna Paulina Luna
3. Josh Kandlestick

Sharing out of an abundance of caution, in case you weren't already aware. Please let me know if you need further information.

Subject: Notice of Fraudulent E-Mail Sent to Voter In Michigan

Hello,

The East Lansing, MI Deputy clerk was brought the attached document by a voter. He noted the misspellings on the document and didn't click on the link, but was concerned it could be a phishing attempt.

I have attached the clerks original communication which has more detail. (we are working to get the original email document from the citizen.)

Thank you,

Ashiya Brown, MBA

Good afternoon:

Please know that a voter brought the attached printout to our office this afternoon. He noted the misspellings and did not click on the link, but was understandably concerned. We assured him that everything was fine in the Qualified Voter File, and said we would report this accordingly. This is the first such e-mail that we've been made aware of. We are sending this to the Ingham County Clerk's Office, as well. If you have any questions, please let us know. Thank you!

Hi, Geoff. I need to report a new thread of disinfo about Dominion appearing on social media. A new targeted thread falsely claims that DVS systems were used in Myanmar's elections. I would like to request help with quick takedown of this fake news.

Thanks,
Kay
